

BIG SWINDLE LAID TO MAN AND WIFE

Mrs. Susan Kraus, 63, Accused of Getting $300,000, Refuses to Answer Questions.

BANKER LENDS $75,000

Woman, 92, Also Intrusted
$12,000—No Trace of Borrowed Money Is Found.

POMEROY, Ohio, Sept. 30.—Mrs. Susan Kraus, 63, and her husband, George Kraus, 68, a former miner, are in the county jail here accused of embezzlement, and with their arrest, officials say, will be uncovered the fabrication of another financial scheme involving promises of big returns for the use of money. Mr. and Mrs. Kraus are said to have obtained between $200,000 and $300,000 from Pomeroiy residents with the promise of a return of 10 per cent. or better. They were taken to jail last night, after having been arrested on a charge of embezzlement, and so far have been unable to provide bail. Mrs. Kraus is in a state of partial coma, and refuses to answer questions or talk to any one. Holders of alleged promissory notes, said to have been given by Mrs. Kraus as security, continued to report to officials to-day. Fred Ough, a banker, said he lent Mrs. Kraus $75,000. Emma Hamm, a servant employed in the Kraus household, said she had $1,500 invested in the scheme. She took promissory notes in lieu of wages. Mrs. Peter Gloeckner, 33 years old, reported that she had lent $12,000 to Mrs. Kraus. Creditors of the woman declare they lent the money to her on her representations that a relative in a distant city would invest it at a return of 10 per cent. or better. When interest time came she is said to have paid that due with further notes. There is much speculation here as to what has become of the money Mrs. Kraus is said to have obtained. No one has been able to obtain any information as to where the funds have gone. The Krauses were arrested on an affidavit sworn out by A. W. Lee, attorney, who represented Miss Bertha Seyfried. The latter charges embezzlement of $4,000. Bankruptcy proceedings against Mrs. Kraus were started in Federal Court at Columbus to-day by Fred S. Hatch, an attorney, who represents persons from whom the woman is said to have borrowed money.

HUSBAND IN SUIT CITES 12 SCORROWS, ALL CATS But Wife Gets Alimony in Seeking Freedom.

Henry J. Hesselbach, an upholsterer, believes a woman's place is the home and a cat's place is the back fence, so when at the invitation of Mrs. Hesselbach twelve homeless Yorkville cats moved into the Hesselbachs flat, at 310 East Fifty-second street, Henry J. moved out. He told his troubles yesterday in Supreme Court. Hesselbach said in reply to his wife's demand for alimony that she "seemed to have an abnormal fancy for being attracted to cats, and not only had her own cats in the house but permitted stray cats of all descriptions to make the house absolutely unlivable." Cats overran the place, Mr. Hesselbach said. They occupied the best chairs, cluttered up the carpet, slept in the beds and even took catnaps on the dining room table. But that wasn't the worst of it. He used to find hairs on the dish towels after his wife dried her hands and cats' whiskers appeared in the butter, the soup and the mashed potatoes. Caterwalling murdered his rest at night and catcalls by day drove him to the verge of catlepsy. Mrs. Hesselbach said her husband rented a home at Long Beach for the summer of 1921 and that "another woman" lived there. Justice Wasservogel granted $30 a week alimony and $500 counsel fees.

GIRL HELD IN $50,000 FALSE TEETH THEFT

Clerk of Dentists Supply Co. and Two Men Accused of
Year of Stealing.

SETS SOLD FOR $1 EACH

Other Arrests Expected in Plot Said to Have Extended
All Over the U. S.

False teeth, valued at $50,000, have been systematically stolen from the Dentists Supply Company, Candler Building, 220 West Forty-second street, officials of the firm revealed yesterday after the arrest of Miss Frances Peter, aged 28, employed as a clerk by the concern, and who lives at 415 West Fifty-sixth street; Thomas A. Brannigan, 21, 148 West Sixty-seventh street, a drug clerk employed by his father, Thomas J. Brannigan, at 161 Amsterdam avenue, and John Cunningham, 29, of 149 West Sixty-seventh street, employed as a mechanical dentist by his father, Peter Cunningham. Arrested by James Boylan and Cornelius Sullivan, detectives of the West Thirtieth street station, Miss Peter and the two men are said to have admitted stealing the false teeth. They were released in bail of $2,000 each, after arraignment yesterday before Magistrate Jesse Silberman in Jefferson Market Court. Hearings were set for October 6. Officials of the dental supply concern, which is capitalized at $5,000,000, for more than a year have been aware of a systematic leakage in the business, said Dean C. Osborne, vice-president of the firm. Private detectives were employed, he said, and suspicion finally narrowed down to Miss Peter. The young woman was watched by detectives. Friday at noon she was met by Brannigan in a restaurant in the Times square district, Detective Boylan said. During the meal she was observed to slip something into a newspaper held by her companion. Arrest of the pair followed and they were taken to the offices of the Dentists Supply Company, where Miss Peter, according to Detective Boylan, broke down and confessed. Wrapped in the newspaper held by Brannigan was found a box of false teeth valued at $156. For many months, Miss Peter is said to have told Detective Boylan, she has been carrying boxes of the teeth to Brannigan, who in turn carried them to Cunningham. The teeth then were sold in various parts of the country, the young woman is reported as saying, at $5, a lot less than wholesale cost. Cunningham, himself a mechanical dentist, was able to sell the teeth. Detective Boylan stated, without arousing suspicion. In many instances, according to the alleged confession of Miss Peter, Cunningham sold the stolen teeth in large quantities for as low as $1 a set. Belief that other persons were involved in the wholesale theft was voiced yesterday by Mr. Osborne. "We expect other arrests to be made within the next few days," said Mr. Osborne. "The thefts, which were well planned, have been going on systematically for at least a year. For that length of time officials of the firm have been aware of a stock leakage. We employed private detectives to work on the case." The leakage was first observed when we found that quantities of false teeth were being sold in various parts of the country at $1.50 a set. That is about $1 lower than we can sell them for. The outrageously low prices being quoted by a mysterious competitor caused us to investigate, with the result that we discovered our own goods were being systematically stolen. "The arrests made Friday have solved the leakage, but others, I feel certain, are implicated in the theft." Mr. Osborne ridiculed reports that the supply of teeth stolen from his firm could have been valued at $500,000.

Tariffs May Come—and Tariffs May Go—

SINCE the enactment of the new tariff law, the nation has been waiting for the first signs of its effects. Conflicting judgments and opinions have filled the air. It has been hailed on the one hand as a harbinger of prosperity, and bitterly condemned on the other.

Time alone can tell which verdict is correct. But through the confusion, ringing clear above the din, is at least one definite assurance, one unswerving guarantee to the public:

Come what may, our goods, whether made in America or imported, will always be sold at lowest-in-the-city prices.

In every home where the cost of living is carefully balanced against the family income—and where is this not the case today?—the effect of the new tariff upon prices is a problem of imminent importance.

It is no less a problem to us. This store scours the universe constantly to furnish your person, your home, and your table with the choicest products procurable at the lowest possible prices. We own merchandise worth more than ten millions of dollars—desirable, dependable merchandise, bought before the new tariff was enacted, and marked to retail at prices based upon its cost to us.

There will be no increases in the retail prices of merchandise now in our stock.

How the new tariff will affect the wholesale prices of merchandise we may buy hereafter, it would be idle to predict. But it cannot in the slightest affect this two-fold policy of our business, unalterably fixed by more than two generations of practice:

First, to buy dependable merchandise, whether here or abroad, at the lowest possible prices.

Second, to sell dependable merchandise, at least six per cent. below the lowest prices of our competitors, and often much lower.
